

JAMESTOWN ROAD WILL BE A MODEL

Description of Thorough Plans
Mapped Out by the Government.

HOW IT WILL BE BUILT

Preliminary Work Starts To-Day,
But Convict Force of Fifty
Waits Machinery.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
JAMESTOWN, VA., December 2.—Actual work will begin on the macadamized road to Jamestown today. Fifty convicts will be used to spread the stone on the road, but as the spreading of machinery will require some time, these will not be brought here until everything is ready. The machinery—stone-crushers, rollers, etc.—will be supplied by the government. Some of it has already arrived, and the balance is expected within a short time.

It has been decided to begin at the Chesapeake and Ohio depot, and macadamize three miles, instead of the entire distance. The rest of the road will be made of sand and clay. Assistant State Commissioner George J. Coleman, who drew the plans for the road, and Mr. W. L. Spooner, of Washington, will supervise the construction of the road.

The specifications provide that the road shall be graded for twenty feet in width, except where, in the opinion of the engineer, it shall be impracticable.

All stony material, vegetable matter, trees, roots and stumps shall be removed to a depth to be determined by the engineer, and spaces thus made shall be filled in with such material as he may direct. In general, embankments will be made of sand and clay.

Curbs of rubble masonry will be placed according to the direction of the engineer. The rubble masonry will be set in concrete, and will be made of stone, sand and free from all structural defects, and roughly squared. The stones will be at least eight inches thick, and break joints will be at least six inches.

Virrified clay pipe and cast-iron water pipes of sizes ordered by engineer will be laid where needed for drainage. Before the broken stone is spread the road-bed will be shaped to a true surface, conforming to the proposed cross section of the road, and rolled by a steam roller weighing not less than ten tons. All depressions occurring will be filled with suitable material and rolled again.

Broken stone will be spread and rolled on the road-bed. The broken stone will be four inches deep after rolling; the top course two inches deep.

After these two courses are thoroughly compacted, broken stone screenings will be laid on, watered and rolled with the mud flutes to the surface. Each course, bottom, top and under will be rolled separately with a heavy steam roller, and covered up with material of same size and quality as the last course, in that particular course. This construction of the road, as shown by the above specifications, will be thorough, and will be one of the greatest undertakings in this State for some years.

The road, when completed, will add not only to the facilities for the transportation of goods from the exposition to Jamestown, but also to the convenience of the citizens in traveling the road, and will add considerably to the value of the property.
